Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Thank you for your letter of 2 September.

The cautions you suggested are indeed appropriate for anyone examining the most recent assassinations. The work of our Task Force on Assassination and Political Violence will reflect your concerns, I believe. Most of that work is historical and no effort was made to re-open the Oswald case. We addressed ourselves to broader issues.

All of the volumes (8 so far, another 10, perhaps, by December 1) of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence are available from the Superintendent of Documents.

Yours sincerely
